

Viking Media Previews – July 2006

Bon Appetit (July 2006) – The article “BBQ Style Guide,” about charcoal grills vs. gas grills, shows a 53”W. Viking ultra-premium gas grill.

Before & After (Summer 2006) – “Picture This,” about the remodel of a kitchen built in 1981, shows a 30”W. Viking range, hood and 24”W. undercounter refrigerated beverage center with fluted glass.

Better Homes and Gardens (July 2006) – An article about a cottage built in 1910, titled “Hello Country Life,” shows a 30”W. Viking range.

Better Homes and Gardens Kitchen and Bath Ideas (July/August 2006) – The “Wish List” features a 15”W. Viking Designer series undercounter beverage center. The section “Multiple Choices,” featuring windows and how they affect the look of your kitchen, shows a 48”W. Viking range. The article “Crowd Pleaser,” about a 1920s cottage in Maine, shows a 48”W. Viking range, hood and 15”W. undercounter wine cellar. The article “Free Range,” about a rural Vermont family’s kitchen, shows a 60”W. Viking range and hood with graphite gray finish. Also, “Aged Fresh,” about incorporating a traditional style into a new kitchen, features a built-in Viking oven and warming drawer with white finish.

Cooking With Paula Deen (July/August 2006) – The article “Cooking with Jamie & Bobby,” which features recipes from Paula Deen’s two sons, shows a 36”W. Viking range.

Designer (Vol. 3 Issue 9 2006) – An article about building glass houses, titled “Clear as Glass,” shows a 48”W. Viking rangetop.

Dream Lofts & Condos (Premier Issue 2006) – “Simple and Efficient,” about a 1930s home in Indianapolis, Ind., shows a 36”W. Viking range and hood.

Home (July/August 2006) – An article about a Colonial-style house in Chappaqua, N.Y., titled “American Beauty,” shows a 48”W. Viking range and hood. The article “Ready for Summer,” about the backyard of a 1867 farmhouse, shows a 30”W. Viking ultra-premium gas grill on-cart.

Home and Architectural Trends (Vol. 22 No. 1) – Article “Break From Tradition” shows a 36”W. Viking range and hood. The article “Individual Manor” shows a 60”W. Viking range and hood. The article “Casa Grande” shows a 36”W. Viking range. The article “Accentuate the Positive” shows a Viking Designer series 36”W. continuous grate cooktop, double ovens and refrigerator. The article “The Wright Address” shows a 48”W. Viking rangetop, hood, side-by-side refrigerator/freezer and 24”W. undercounter wine cellar.

Kitchen Trends (Vol. 22 No. 3) – The article “A Walk in the Woods” shows a 48”W. Viking range with burgundy finish. The article “At Ease” shows a 48”W. Viking rangetop, double ovens and microwave. Article “Made to Measure” shows a 36”W. Viking range, warming drawer and microwave. Also, the article “Ingrained Style” shows a 48”W. Viking rangetop.

Metropolitan Home (July/August 2006) – “A New Vintage,” about a home in Sonoma, Calif., shows a 36”W. Viking range and hood.

New York Home (July/August 2006) – An article about a penthouse apartment in New York, titled “Doing a 360,” shows a Viking side-by-side refrigerator/freezer. The article “It’s Better Than New,” about a six-year-old home, shows a 48”W. Viking range and hood.

Renovation Style (Summer 2006) – The article “A Healing Home,” about a 1930s house in New Canaan, Conn., shows a 36”W. Viking cooktop. The article “In a Natural State,” about a house in Seattle, Wash., shows a 36”W. Viking range and hood.

Southern Living (July 2006) – Article “White-Hot Ideas for the Kitchen,” about a cottage home in Austin, Texas, shows a 36”W. Viking rangetop.

This Old House (July/August 2006) – The cover story “Fit for the Family,” about 1930s house in Mamaroneck, N.Y., shows a 48”W. Viking range. The article “1 Kitchen 3 Ways,” about different ways a kitchen designer reinvented a small floor plan, shows a 36”W. Viking range.

Western Interiors (July/August 2006) – An article about outdoor grill options, titled “Out with Kitchens,” shows a Viking C4 outdoor cooker on-cart with double side burners.

Western Living (June/July 2006) – The article “Back to the Land” about a log cabin on British Columbia’s Shuswap Lake, shows a 42”W. Viking rangetop and hood.

Veranda (July/August 2006) – The article “British Accent,” about a new home in Shelter Island, N.Y., shows a 60”W. Viking range with white finish, hood and dishwasher with white finish.

Weekend Homes (Premier Issue 2006) – An article about a vacation home in Martha’s Vineyard, titled “Simply Special,” shows a 60”W. Viking range, hood and side-by-side refrigerator/freezer. The article “Carolina Perspective,” about a home on the South Carolina coast, shows a 36”W. Viking rangetop. The article “Free Time,” about a cottage in Harbor Springs, Mich., features a 30”W. Viking range.